

Listen people to a story
'bout a great and costly pearl
It was finer than the fairest maiden's teeth
More costly than fine oil

A merchant wandered into the marketplace
And chanced to see with much delight
The most precious gem he had ever seen
Oh how it shown in the night

He went home and got all that he had
And sold it at a great loss
For he now wanted nothing but that pearl
He didn't care about the cost

He went back to the marketplace
And gave the man all that he had
For to him that pearl was of finest worth
The pearl is YOU, so be glad

(lower voice, faster pace, notes low to high)

A man loved you and died for you
He chose death not for his sake
Receive his love you pearl of great price
Tis there for you to take
